Custom-built Websites

For custom-built sites, we use a more elaborate development process:

1. Discussions with you to make sure we effectively present your information, products, and services. Analyze what exactly the Web and Internet can do for your business. Together with you, determine the size, scope, and complexity of your site.
2. An agreement detailing the development and project cost is made.
3. Actual design and implementation begins.
4. The draft website is made available on our site for you to review and make comments and suggestions.
5. We revise, alter, add, and modify the draft site until you are satisfied. Work not covered by the agreement and extensive changes may cost extra. We keep accurate records on the time we spend on your project.
6. Before finishing, we conduct a final site critique to make sure everything looks just right and works correctly.
7. Launch your new site to a web hosting service provider of your choice or we would be happy to host and manage your site for you.
